OUR STORY

When I was growing up on a dairy farm in Western Australia, we had limited money to spend but my mother really believed that her daughters could do anything and learning to read was one of the most important achievements to build a successful career. My mother loved the world of books and read to us every day from a range of wonderful material she would access from our small country town library. I am sure she had read almost every book in that library.

Thirty-five years ago, I was lucky enough to work on an assignment about a research project conducted by Olive Meares, who was modelling ideas on how to teach children aged 12+ to read. It documented how many young adults could not read, and how destroying this could be for self-esteem. It also noted the inadequate resources that were being used, as no other books were available.

I decided to try to make a difference – to give every child the opportunity to learn to read. Sunshine Books was born.

At the beginning – Bruce Wallace, Art Director, Joy Cowley, world-famous author and Wendy Pye.

I began with small beginnings from an old house with a small team, many of them are still with me today. We gathered some of the best children's books authors and illustrators. We ran workshops. We analysed books that had made a difference to reading success. We looked at why some books didn't work for children. We had a lot of fun exploring all aspects of publishing and what makes a book one that will help any child learn to read.

We invented our own font – the Sunshine type style. We learnt from many educators the value of illustrations that matched the print. We focused on concepts of print – return sweep, punctuation and matching one-to-one.

A gathering of illustrators, authors and the Sunshine team in 1987.

I went into classrooms and did my apprenticeship, learning how reading was taught to foundation level students as well as to the older students.

Sunshine Books launched with the Classics we have today. Many millions of copies have sold around the world. They still offer the same benefits – carefully graded, great stories, engaging illustrations and the magic of a story often with a twist.

Over three generations of students have grown up with Sunshine Books. We have continued to add new titles and quality non-fiction as well as providing the added value of online learning and activities.

Now in 2019

Due to demand, we are bringing back some of the stories that have been favourites in the classroom for take-home resources. These have been given a face lift with up-to-date material and new design. They have been levelled for your book boxes. We have added some notes for parents and caregivers on the inside back of each book. The pack of 70 titles (Levels 3–13) is offered at a special price to make them available to meet budgets – $199 for 70 titles.

Super Reader

Thank you for being part of the Sunshine family. We know that with the new generation of learners beginning school this year and the older students enjoying the higher grades, Sunshine will continue to be part of their learning.

Our motto of Teaching the World to Read has been our inspiration at Sunshine Books.

Why do Australian teachers use Sunshine digital and print resources to support their literacy teaching?

Because they work! Sunshine digital programs engage thousands of students across Australia every day.

Using Sunshine Digital gives results for thousands of students

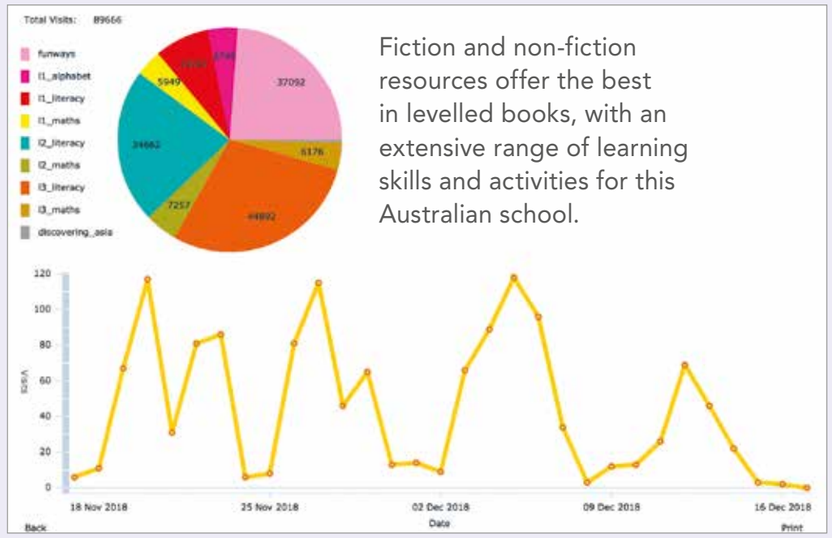
More than two million hits on Sunshine Online and Sunshine Classics during 2018 – at school and at home.

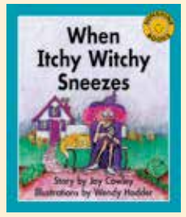


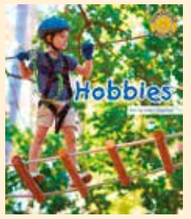
Fiction and non-fiction resources offer the best in levelled books, with an extensive range of learning skills and activities for this Australian school.

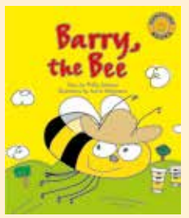
Every day teachers use Sunshine Online for shared and independent reading

Print resources for emergent to fluent readers

A key factor is the range of authors and illustrators that are associated with the series. We commission the best literacy writers to develop packages that succeed.







Sunshine Supporting You

Sunshine has the literacy resources needed to teach emergent through to fluent readers. There has always been a critical need for effective early childhood literacy resources. Because the foundation for literacy begins in the early years, young students must be actively taught to understand what they hear and view and what they read during these years. Students learn how to look at print, hear sounds in words and make matches between sounds and letters. They learn the concepts of print and decoding skills, including phonological awareness and phonics.

Sunshine resources are designed to teach these foundational skills along with gradual vocabulary acquisition and comprehension strategies development including making connections through to critical thinking. Our lesson plans adhere to a balanced literacy approach, helping teachers incorporate the elements of learning language and literacy into their lessons. Students become successful language users and develop a love of reading as they build up their reading mileage during shared, guided and independent reading.

The books are written to meet the needs of readers with –

- appropriate spacing between words to help identify the boundaries between words;
- illustrations that go with the text to aid comprehension strategies;
- graphics to help understand that books have different sources of information;
- limited number of sentences per page to foster voice-to-print matching;
- appropriate high-frequency words introduced at each level and repeated and built on to support automaticity;
- repetitive patterns to assist EAL students' vocabulary and grammar acquisition and the development of fluency;
- fiction, including plays and non-fiction genres, to build knowledge of different text structures, text features and STEM topics;
- scaffolding that supports the gradual progression of difficulty as levels increase.

Our texts are levelled by professional reading recovery tutors. Our non-fiction texts particularly are used in classrooms for EAL students.

We recognise the need to keep students reading in the home, with parental involvement, and over the long summer holidays, having books available for reading at their levels (in print or digitally) to counteract the summer slide effect or drop-off in reading levels. The educational benefits of reading in the home are well documented. A selection of take-home books of different genres allows students to find books that they enjoy. If they are able to choose books on topics they are interested in, their progress is significantly improved.

Our levelled texts

- support the development of reading strategies over time;
- offer opportunities for students to build independent reading strategies;
- support reading instruction by helping teachers select texts that are appropriate;
- offer examples of different genres and writing styles to extend students' reading abilities;
- provide a basis for guided reading instruction;
- help teachers guide students' choices for independent reading;
- foster reading success with increasingly challenging texts.

Today's students welcome the challenge of learning through technology. Our two online reading programs, Sunshine Online and Sunshine Classics, provide an abundance of book choices in both fiction and non-fiction with multiple interactive skills-related activities that are fun and help with comprehension.

Struggling readers are motivated to read using technology so they improve their reading abilities. The voice-over provides a consistent and natural model of the English language for EAL students to follow. They provide opportunities for authentic experiences of listening, talking, reading and writing. Sunshine Classics also provides a recording facility for students to practise fluency.

Sunshine Starters

Our new balanced literacy program for beginning readers

Sunshine Starters is a new literacy program that is underpinned by sound pedagogy and evidence-based findings on the teaching of early literacy. Extensive research has identified the "five pillars of reading" as essential skills readers need to learn to succeed and the components that are required of a quality literacy program.

- Engaging fiction and non-fiction texts levels 1–15
- Essential skills teaching focus on the inside back cover of all titles
- Comprehensive guided reading teaching notes available for download
- High-frequency words presented as flash cards on the inside front cover of each book
- Comprehension task on the outside back cover

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Balanced Literacy – Integrating the Five Pillars of Reading

PHONEMIC AWARENESS

VOCABULARY

FLUENCY

Sunshine Starters program focuses on the five essential skill areas that all students need to develop into successful readers. Evidence-based findings have identified these key areas as:

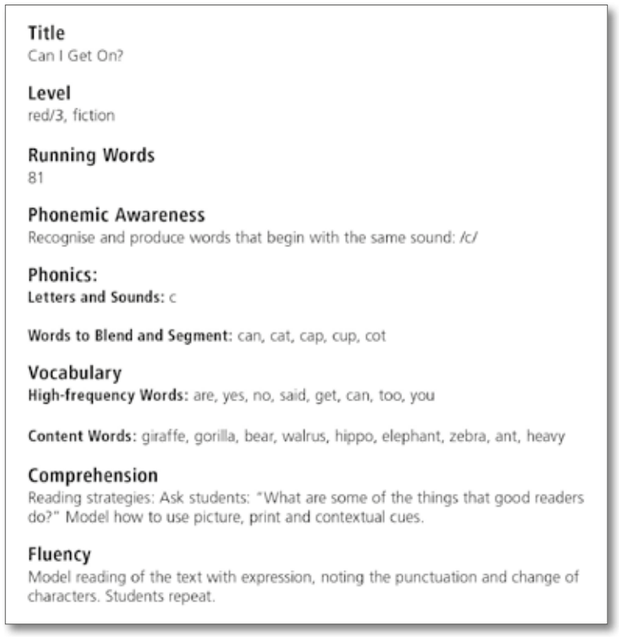
Phonemic Awareness – the ability to hear, identify and manipulate individual sounds (phonemes) in spoken words.

Phonics – understanding the relationship between written letters (graphemes) and sounds.

Vocabulary – developing an ever-increasing base of known words and their meaning.

Comprehension – ability to understand and make meaning from text.

Fluency – ability to read at pace with accuracy and expression.



Title
Can I Get On?

Level
red/3, fiction

Running Words
81

Phonemic Awareness
Recognise and produce words that begin with the same sound: /c/

Phonics:
Letters and Sounds: c

Words to Blend and Segment: can, cat, cap, cup, cot

Vocabulary
High-frequency Words: are, yes, no, said, get, can, too, you

Content Words: giraffe, gorilla, bear, walrus, hippo, elephant, zebra, ant, heavy

Comprehension
Reading strategies: Ask students: "What are some of the things that good readers do?" Model how to use picture, print and contextual cues.

Fluency
Model reading of the text with expression, noting the punctuation and change of characters. Students repeat.

An overview of the skills teaching focus for each book is presented on the inside back cover.

Enlarge these high-frequency words on a photocopier to create flash cards.

are	yes	no	said
get	can	too	you

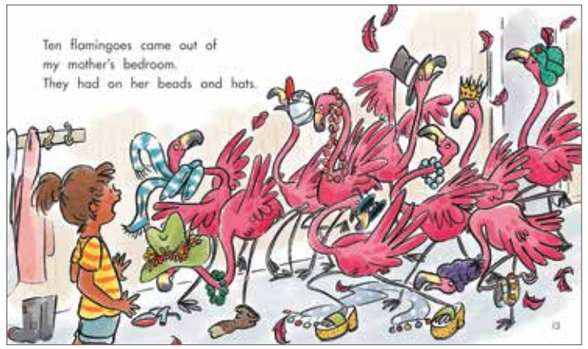
High-Frequency Words

The high-frequency words focus for each book is presented on the inside front cover as flash cards. These can be photocopied for use.

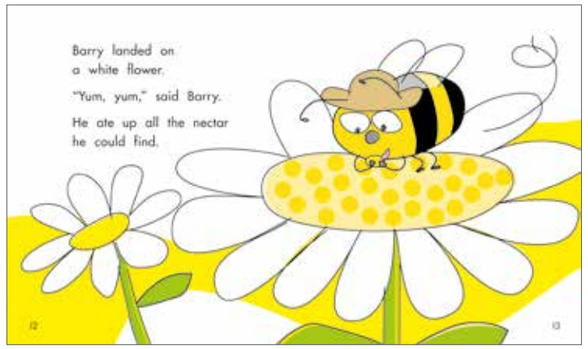
FICTION BOOKS

Instant Appeal

The Sunshine Starters fiction titles have been designed to hook students in from the cover and then keep them reading right up to the very last enjoyable page! Our talented authors have written stories that even feature footloose flamingoes and runaway pants! There are an abundance of fun stories that your students will want to read.



Flamingoes Everywhere (Level 9)



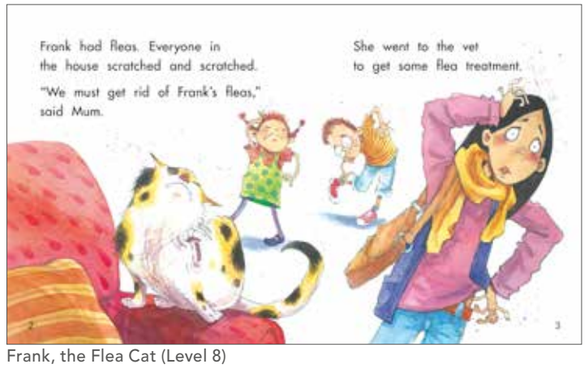
Barry, the Bee (Level 7)

Sound Structure

All titles have been carefully levelled using reading recovery criteria so that the gradient of difficulty supports beginning readers. Careful consideration is given to the size and spacing of the text, the connection between illustration and text and also the complexity of the language and sentence structures.

Guided Reading

Sunshine Starters has been created as a guided reading program and is supported by explicit teaching notes. These notes ensure that the five pillars of reading are covered.



Frank, the Flea Cat (Level 8)

Comprehension Task

The outside back cover of most of the titles features a comprehension task that is ideal for group discussion.

NON-FICTION BOOKS

Importance of Non-Fiction

The digital world exposes students to a huge amount of information and much of this information is factual in nature. Students need to be able to process the information that is presented to them in many ways (diagrams, graphs, charts etc). Well-organised and levelled non-fiction texts can help them to learn how to do this.

Colour Magic (Level 11)

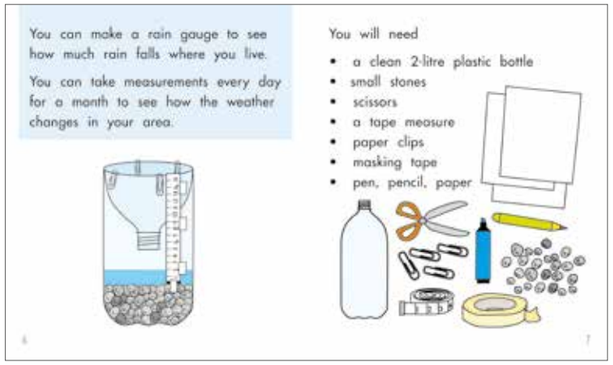
A Trickle of Water (Level 9)

Doors to Discovery

The new Sunshine Starters non-fiction texts are perfect for sparking students' natural curiosity about the world around them. Including high-interest topics, the books will help students to develop their general knowledge and expand their vocabulary.

Text Types

Students are introduced to a range of different text types including factual reports, recounts, procedural texts, persuasive texts and explanations.



How Much Rain? (Level 11)

Support for Readers

The texts offer the right balance needed for students who are reading to learn while they are learning to read. Vivid photography, clear, appropriately sized and spaced text and small chunks of information all provide the supports a beginning reader needs.

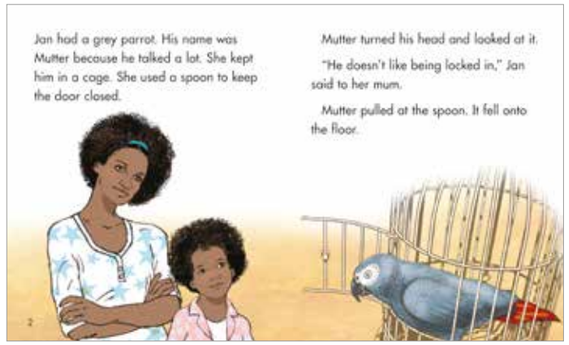
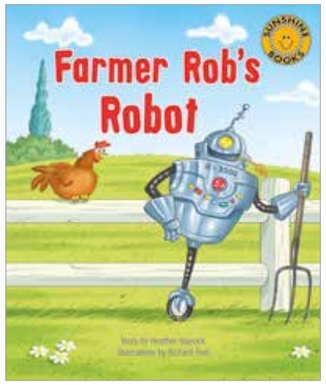
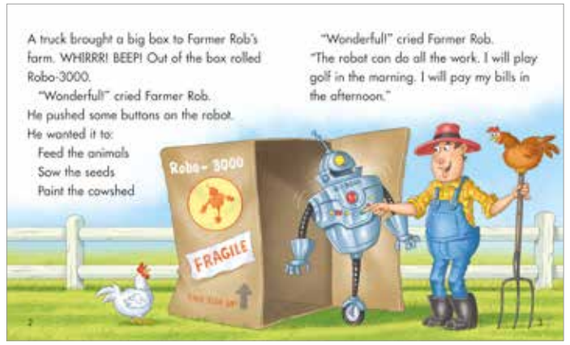
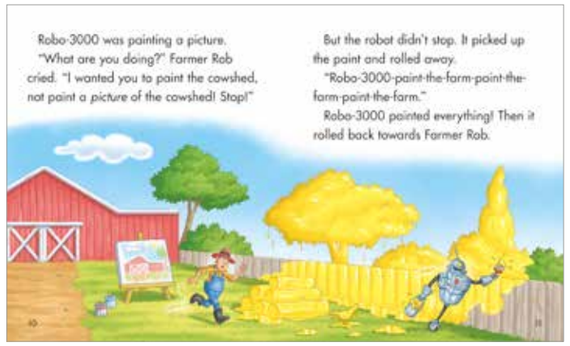
Mutter, the parrot, talks a lot and he doesn't like being locked in a cage. He does like being part of the family though.



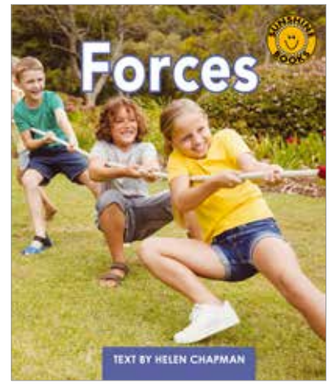


Farmer Rob buys a robot to help on the farm. But the robot does a lot more than Farmer Rob asks it to do.





This text uses a poetic structure to list the number of ways we use the word "time" in our daily lives.



A force makes a thing move. Read about how a push or a pull can make things move, stop or turn.

Sunshine Classics

The magic continues with this original, ever-popular series

Sunshine Classics continues to be one of Australia's most loved and successful literacy programs. These books have been tried and tested over the years and have been used to teach children from all around the world to read and to develop a love of reading.

Why is this series so magical and still so popular with students and teachers alike? The answer is simple – it works!

- Over 300 fiction and non-fiction titles
- Levels 1 to 30 for emergent to fluent readers
- A perfect balance of support and challenge for beginning readers
- Free teaching notes and professional development videos
- All titles available in print and digital formats

Remember that Sunshine is not just nice little stories… They are educationally sound and they have been well constructed and graded.

Joy Cowley, author

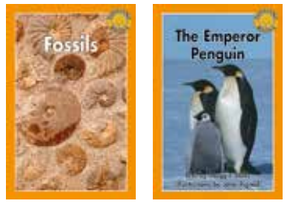
PROGRAM COMPONENTS

Books

This is where the magic is – in the wonderful stories that make Sunshine Classics the books of choice for students and teachers.

The fiction titles engage all students with loveable characters, fun and imaginative storylines and a dose of humour. Key series author, Joy Cowley, has created timeless stories that students love to read.

The non-fiction texts in Sunshine Classics cover a wide range of interesting topics with the information easily accessible.



E-Books

All of the Sunshine Classics titles are available as e-books on the Sunshine Classics website or app. The digital versions can be used on a large screen such as an interactive whiteboard or TV for SHARED READING.

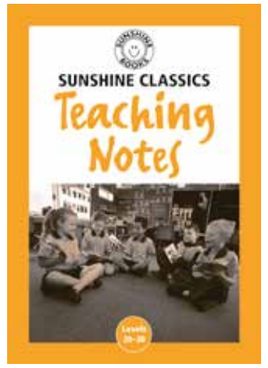
On iPads, the program can be used for GUIDED READING and students can access the program at home or in class using computers and iPads for INDEPENDENT READING.

Audio Books

A selection of Sunshine Classics titles are available as audio books to support students listening skills. The Listening Post packs allow students to hear the stories they enjoy being read to them with fluency and expression. This model of fluent reading can be valuable for all students but particularly for struggling readers and students where English is not their first language.

Teaching Notes

Free Guided Reading Lesson Plans are available to download from the Sunshine Classics website. These notes are clearly written and provide explicit teaching with a focus on the skill areas of comprehension, vocabulary, fluency and writing.



Professional Development

Demonstration literacy lessons using Sunshine Classics are provided through FREE videos. These videos show Australian teachers working with their students and modelling different teaching approaches such as:

- SHARED READING
- GUIDED READING
- RECIPROCAL READING
- READING INTERVENTION

FICTION BOOKS

Child-Centred Stories

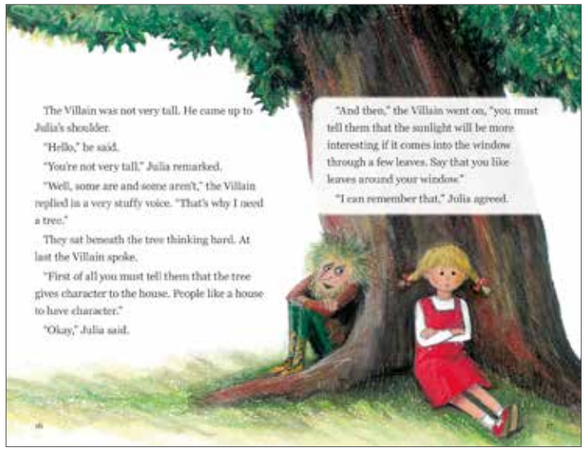
The stories in Sunshine Classics appeal to students because they come from students' experiences and view of the world. Students relate to the stories and the characters and they actively engage with the story.

Loveable Characters

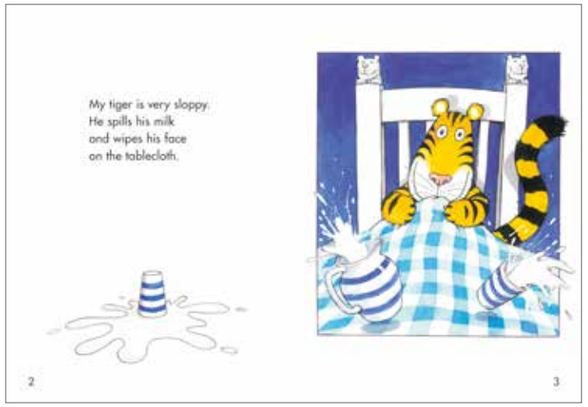
Along with fun storylines, Sunshine Classics feature many loveable characters such as Huggles, Sloppy Tiger and Mr Whisper. Students relate to the situations these characters find themselves in and enjoy the use of humour.

World-renowned Authors

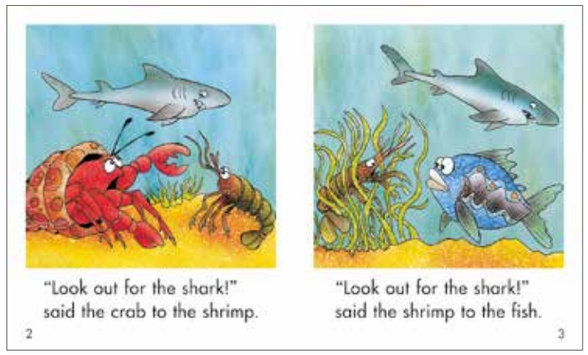
Sunshine Classics titles have been written by popular children's authors such as Joy Cowley and Margaret Mahy. These authors know how to write stories for beginning readers to provide just the right amount of support and challenge.



The New House Villain (Level 28)



My Sloppy Tiger (Level 16)

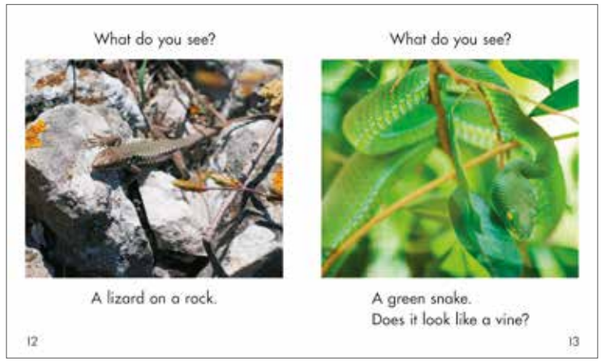


Look Out! (Level 5)

Carefully Crafted

Each story in Sunshine Classics has been levelled and constructed to support early readers. All elements of these texts, such as the introduction and repetition of high-frequency words, illustration and text matching, sentence construction and line breaks, are all carefully designed to make learning to read successful for all students.

NON-FICTION BOOKS



Camouflage (Level 11)

Engaging and Motivating

The Sunshine Classics non-fiction books cover an extensive range of high-interest topics that are sure to capture the interest of all students. The books are designed to ensure that the information is presented in such a way that it will be easily accessible.

Text Features

The Sunshine Classics non-fiction books include many text features to help students make meaning. These include charts, graphs, photographs, diagrams, illustrations, captions and glossaries. Most texts include a table of contents, an index, a glossary and headings.

Getting the Water We Need (Level 23)

SUNSHINE CLASSICS

Level 17

The Tiny Woman's Coat

GOALS

Comprehension

Describe characters and setting using illustrations and story details

High-frequency words

keep, mine, sharp, stayed, take, three, try, wanted, warm, where

Writing

Rewrite the story with dialogue in speech bubbles

A tiny woman gets help to make a coat.

Before Reading

- Have students tell how they look for clues that will help them to think about and read a story. They find information on the cover, title page and i

SUNSHINE CLASSICS

Level 17

The Tiny Woman's Coat

After Reading

- Write up the descriptive words from the story. Students chant the words in unison using different pace, volume and expression. They explore the sounds in the words. They can suggest words that end like rustle. (thistle, candle) They can name words that begin with the same sounds as snip, stitch and sharp. They can think of words that end like stitch. (witch, catch, watch)
- Students use the pen tool to mark the rhyming words. They read with a partner to identify them. They look closely at the words to find similarities and differences in letter and sound patterns.
- As students reread the story, have them explore the meaning of each sentence. Ask: What does this mean to you? Work together to sort sentences that are repeated in the text from those that are not. Students can use the pen tool with different colours to code the text patterns.
- Focus on wanted. Students create new words by adding -s, -ing to want.
- Focus on alliteration. Students search for words close together in sentences that begin with the same consonant and read them aloud.
- Students find seeds, weeds, three in the text. They suggest other words with the long /e/ sound made by ee.

Writing

- Have students create a wall display of words to describe noises and where they come from.
- Students rewrite the story using pictures instead of nouns. They ask a partner to read and interpret their version of the story.
- Students make cartoon strips of the story and write the dialogue in speech bubbles.

Home/School Link

Have students access the story at home and re-read it. They complete the interactive activities:

- Words: Match rhyming words
- Thinking: Answer five comprehension questions (answers below)

1. Why did the tiny woman want a coat?
C. Winter was coming.
2. What did the tiny woman use as cloth for her coat?
B. leaves
3. What did the tiny woman use for buttons on her coat?
C. weed seeds
4. What sort of animal was the horse?
friendly
5. What word tells about the animals and the trees?
C. helpful

- Record: They can read the story by themselves and save it for you to listen to.

Sunshine Digital

Effective Literacy Teaching Using Technology

Sunshine offers all schools two exceptional digital literacy programs – Sunshine Online and Sunshine Classics. Every day, thousands of Australian teachers and their students log in to these programs because they are an integral part of their classroom teaching and learning. Based on real literacy programs, they allow teachers to teach literacy effectively while keeping students motivated and engaged through the use of technology.

- 960 levelled e-books (Levels 1–30+)
- Over 2000 fun, interactive learning activities
- Free teaching notes and professional development videos
- For use on large screens, computers and iPads

Teacher Comment

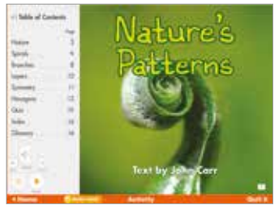
Sunshine Online is an outstanding literacy program. There are other programs available similar in intent to Sunshine Online, but none supports our students to the level they require in order to develop a love and passion of reading and to develop decoding and comprehension skills in such an engaging, fun way. Jill, VIC

OVERVIEW

Real Literacy Programs

Both Sunshine Online and Sunshine Classics are based on real literacy programs – delivered digitally! Teaching always starts with the book and the focus skills are treated within the context of that book. Our programs work the same way. The e-book is the first focus, followed by interactive activities that explore a range of skills from the e-book.

Skill overview documents are available for download for both programs to assist teachers with their planning.



Quality Content

Sunshine Digital includes hundreds of quality texts that will interest and engage students. They are able to listen to, read and view multimodal texts. Many of the texts are animated and some include embedded video clips. Most texts offer narration and text highlighting to support the reader. Interactive activities follow every e-book and focus on the skills of phonics, comprehension, fluency, vocabulary and writing.

Evidence Based

A year-long study showed that our digital programs increase the literacy skills of students in the early years of schooling regardless of the student's ethnicity, entrance reading level or gender, and regardless of how the program was delivered. There were two key factors identified for this success: the first being the program's blend of technology and print which created a high level of student interest, and second, the program's scaffolded instruction which provided a framework for students to learn crucial literacy skills and gave them opportunities to apply and practise those skills.

Multi Devices

Our digital programs can be used on a range of classroom devices including large screens, laptops and iPads. The programs offer flexibility for use in shared reading, guided reading, independent reading and home reading.

Professional Development

Full-length workshop videos provide detailed insight into what the Sunshine digital programs offer and how to use them effectively in the classroom. Perfect for use in staff meetings.

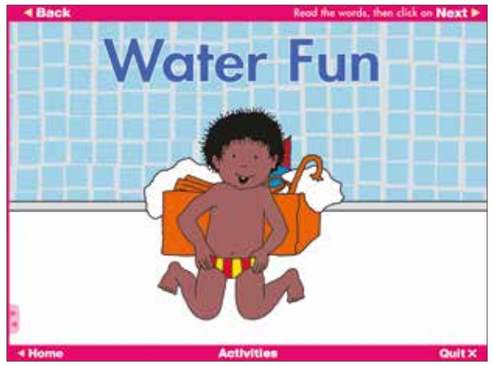
SUNSHINE ONLINE

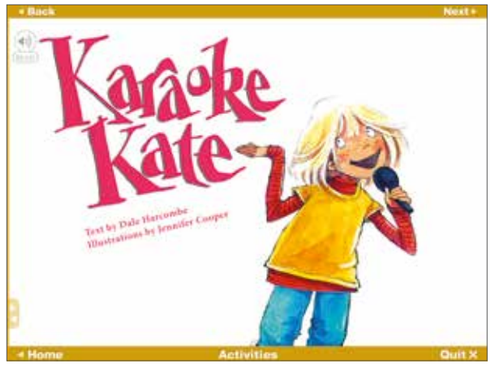
An effective literacy program delivered digitally!

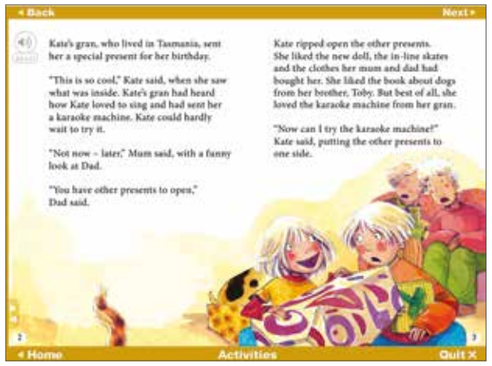
*Over 650 digital e-books *Levels 1–30 *Over 1000 interactive activities

Fiction e-books

Sunshine Online includes a great selection of highly engaging texts by different authors. Most of the titles are animated to bring the story to life and offer narration and text highlighting to support the reader. Each e-book is followed by up to three interactive activities.

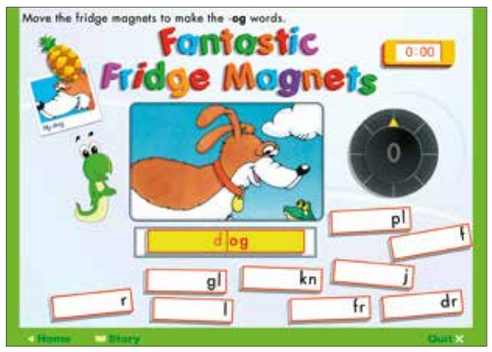


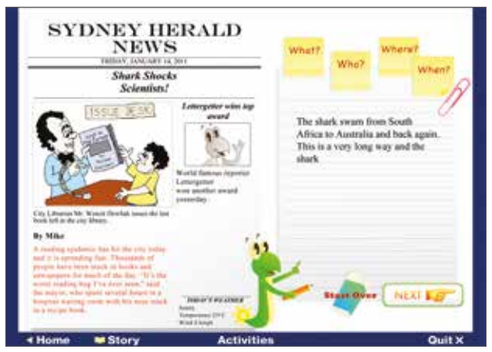




Interactive Activities

Sunshine Online includes fun, interactive activities that explore a wide range of skills. As the program develops, many of the activities become more open-ended, allowing students to demonstrate their understanding of the text in creative ways.





Non-Fiction e-books

The non-fiction e-books feature high-interest and age-appropriate topics. The texts are multimodal and help students make meaning through the use of embedded video clips, animations, audio, images and text. Many of the texts are ideal for inquiry-based learning and support STEM education.

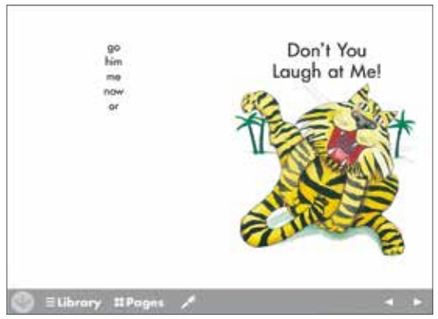
SUNSHINE CLASSICS DIGITAL

Learning to read with the books you love!

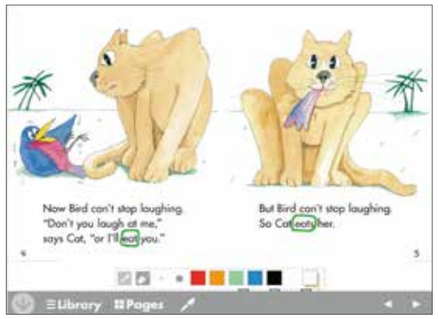
*310 digital e-books *Levels 1–30 *Over 1000 interactive activities

Fiction and Non-Fiction E-books

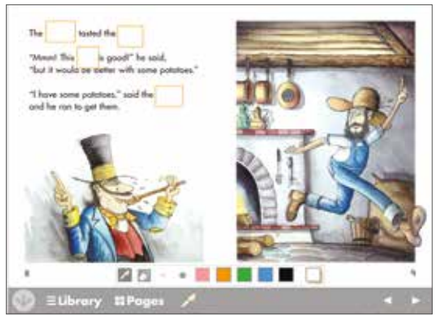
Sunshine Classics Digital offers e-book versions of our popular reading series. Many of the fiction titles have been written by world-renowned authors such as Joy Cowley and Margaret Mahy. The non-fiction texts include an interesting selection of topics with many drawn from the highly successful Sunshine Science series.



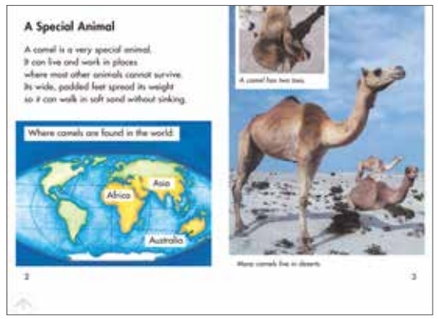
Narration and text highlighting is provided for all titles up to level 25.

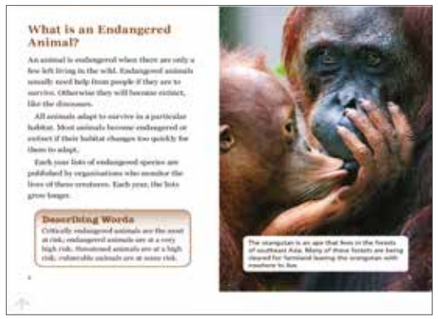


The pen tool can be used to highlight words and draw in different colours.



The white text box can be used to innovate on the text and to hide text and images to help students make predictions.





The non-fiction titles introduce all the common text features of informational text.

Student Tracking and Administration

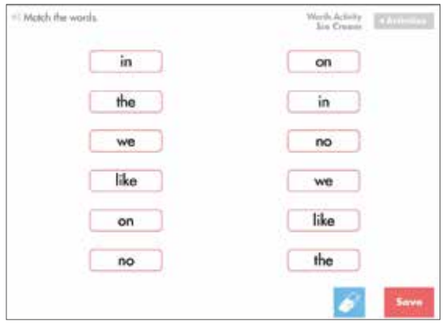
Sunshine Classics offers schools the option of a generic username and password for all students or a unique username and password for each student. Using unique passwords allows teachers to create and manage student files, allocate particular books and track student progress.

Interactive Activities

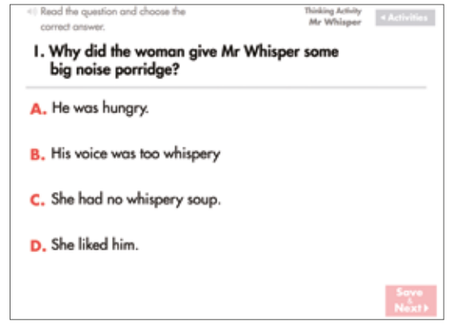
Each of the Sunshine Classics e-books is followed by three or four interactive activities that focus on the key areas of phonics, high-frequency words, comprehension, fluency and writing along with additional revision activities.

After the text is read, students can complete the related activities.

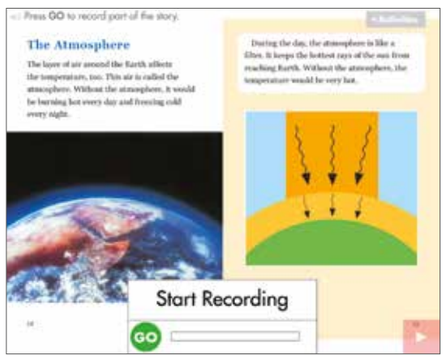
Activity to identify letter sounds



Matching high-frequency words



Comprehension quiz



Students record and listen to their own reading to practise fluency.

Responding to the text in writing

Teacher Support Materials

Guided Reading teaching notes are available for download from the Sunshine Classics website. There are also free Professional Development videos demonstrating different literacy teaching approaches.
